DISPATCHES IN GENERAL.

THE PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION IN CALIFORNIA.

He Speaks in Glowing Terms of the Golden State—A New Yorker's Badly Treated Wife—Fighting Still Continues in Chili—Rebels Burn a Town.

REDDING, Cala., May 4.—The Presidential special train arrived at 10:15 this morning, and remained about twenty minutes, during which time the President made a few remarks, after which Postmaster-General Wannamaker was introduced, and made a speech, in which he said that of all the states he thought California was the most glorious. Secretary Rusk was next presented, and made a few remarks, in which he said that while Mr. Wannamaker had a post office in his pocket for every town and cross road, he didn't have anything to offer. We had here prosperity, with plenty to eat, and be happy. He was presented with some cuttings of this year's growth of peaches, olives, etc. He also remarked that he hated to leave this place, and he would like to live with us always. After introducing Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. McKee, the train pulled out, strewn with flowers, and amid the cheers of about 2000 people.

Social Depravity.

NEW YORK, May 5.—Dora Lawrence, the pretty young wife of Wilmot Lawrence, a brother of Atkins Lawrence, the actor, was arrested on Saturday night for loitering at Fifth avenue and 13th streets. When the officers were leading her away, the husband interposed, and he too was locked up. Yesterday at Jefferson Market court, the young wife said her husband compelled her to support him in idleness. He always followed her, and when she made any money had to give it to him. He admitted his disgraceful conduct.

HORRORS IN CHILE.

Rebels, Drunk With Wine and Victory, Fire a Town—Fighting Among Ruins.

CALLAO, April 5.—It is stated that the government forces retiring to Calamet have revolted and that the officers fled toward Bolivia.

The English steamer Puno arrived here this morning. When she left Valparaiso, March 21, the rebels occupied Antofogasta. It is presumed that Colonel Comus with his forces marched towards Arica. Wherever these men may be, however, they are in a precarious position, having no means of transport and being without water and provisions.

Valparaiso has been converted into a castle. Many of the guns captured in Callao during the last war have been mounted. Three companies of the Quillota regiment revolted at Quillota, but the revolt was suppressed and the leaders were shot.

After the fight at Pozo Almonte, the victorious troops became disorderly and sacked the town. Women and girls were abused and some murdered. The troops once fired with drink, lust and rapine, rioting commenced among them, and soon the torch was applied and three blocks were destroyed, while the strife continued, and the fall of men at the hands of their comrades in rapine accompanied the crushing fall of walls. Laborers from the nitrate fields took part in the work of destruction and eagerly seized the rifles and cartridges of the soldiers who fell. The soldiers found themselves unable to exercise the least authority over the men.

FRANCE WEEPS BLOOD.

Scores of Workmen and Women Shot Down by Soldiers.

PARIS, May 3.—The details of the labor troubles at Fourmies have immensely heightened the political importance of the incident. The fact that six women, several children and eight men were killed on the spot, while twenty persons were seriously wounded, several fatally, gives the affair the character of a massacre. The troops were drawn up on the streets and exposed to stone throwing, and they replied with volleys from their rifles, inflicting frightful wounds on the victims. The houses exposed to their fire were riddled, and there is every sign of reckless and wanton inhumanity shown by the troops.

The local popular commotion is intense, and it finds response in growing excitement in every working centre. Fourmies is to-night practically in a state of siege. Cavalry patrol the streets and are everywhere greeted with yells of reprobation from excited groups of men and women. The tension of feeling may be judged from the fact that the military were hailed with cries of "Vive Prussia."

The funeral of the victims was fixed for to-day, but the enormous number of workmen arriving from other industrial centres caused the Government to send for reinforcements and order the postponement of the funerals until to-morrow. The prefect to-day received a deputation asking for the removal of the regiment that fired upon the crowd.

A section of the Left and the Socialist and Boulangist deputies will join in a demand for a vote of censure against Constans, Minister of the Interior, as responsible for the slaughter. A majority of the Right and Left approves generally of the measures of repression taken by Constans throughout the country, but will advocate inquiry into the conduct of the troops at Fourmies. Parliamentary circles view the affair as shaking the position of the ministry.

Labor circles throughout France are profoundly moved, and public meetings here and at Marseilles, Lyons, and elsewhere are being organized to protest against the precipitate action of the authorities.

The commander at Fourmies, in his report to the Minister of War on the May Day troubles, assumes full responsibility for the action of the troops. He says he only ordered firing when the troops were in danger of being killed or disarmed.

LONDON, May 3.—The principal towns of Germany, Holland and Switzerland were to-day the scenes of demonstrations by workmen in favor of the eight-hour movement. In Hamburg, 10,000 persons, a tenth of whom were wives and sweethearts of workmen, paraded through the suburbs of the town. After a short meeting in the public park, at which appropriate resolutions were adopted, the crowd dispersed and devoted the remainder of the day to music and dancing. No disorder is reported anywhere.

In the Belgian mine districts disorder still prevails, and many telephone wires have been cut and windows smashed. Meetings were held at Liege, Serang and other places to denounce the action of the Brussels labor Unions, which sent delegates to the various centers to delay or prevent strikes. At three meetings it was decided to disregard the advice of the union and commence a general strike to-morrow. A state of siege has been proclaimed in the villages around Liege.

LONDON, May 3.—The attendance at the labor meeting in Hyde Park to-day is variously estimated at from 200,000 to 300,000. The procession in connection with the meeting included workers in all trades and was miles long. John Burns, Thomas Mann, president of the Dockers' Union; Benjamin Tillette and Cunninghame Grahame, the socialist member of parliament, were among the speakers. A resolution in favor of a Labor day and eight hours was moved on all the platforms.

From various dispatches it is ascertained that, in general, quiet prevailed in the continental countries to-day. A number of labor meetings were held in Berlin, and passed resolutions favoring a compulsory eight-hour labor day.

BARCELONA, May 3.—Considerable disorder prevails here. Five petards were exploded during last night, causing great alarm and doing much damage. A conflict between the police and strikers has just taken place. Pistol shots were exchanged. The ringleaders among the rioters were arrested.

VIENNA, May 3.—Fifteen thousand weavers at Bielitz, and employes at Pesth have been dismissed for being absent from work on May day.

THE CHILIAN REVOLUTION.

The Part Played by Ships of the Pacific Squadron.

A copy of the Chilian Times of March 7th received by Sergt. Walker contains the following regarding the British fleet in connection with the revolution:

"On board H.B.M. ironclad Warspite the undersigned met on February 20, 1891, with the object of conferring upon the means of putting an end to the painful situation of this Province.

"It was stated that the City of Iquique had been surrendered by the Intendente of the Province because he has not force sufficient to resist the attack of the squadron from the moment that all the garrison had been withdrawn into the interior. Under these circumstances the city was occupied by Commander Luis A. Goni, of the Blanco Encalada, after intimation.

"On Thursday, the 19th, an attempt to retake the city was made by Col. Jose Maria Soto with forces brought from the interior.

"The attempt was resisted by the forces of the squadron, a stubborn conflict, in which all the vessels of the fleet took part, ensuing, and lamentable losses being caused to the city and belligerents.

"The combat commenced at 6 a. m. and only terminated at 4 p. m. through the intervention of the commander of the British squadron in the Pacific, Admiral Charles F. Hotham, who obtained the assent of both parties to an armistice which was to expire at noon today.

"During the armistice, the conference referred to in this document has been held, all the parties thereto being desirous of averting the consequence of a renewal of hostilities.

"After a lengthy debate the following resolutions have been agreed to:

"1. The forces under the command of Colonel Soto shall retire with all the honors of war to Cavancha bay, Iquique remaining in possession of the fleet.

"2. At the place the Division shall deliver up their arms and the men composing it shall be at liberty to remain in Iquique or to retire to wherever they may chose in a transport which will be provided by the Commander of the Fleet.

"3. It was resolved to extend these resolutions to the Division under Col. Robles in case he should choose to accept them.

Signed. Jorje Monet, Manuel Salinas, Waldo Silva, G. Urrutia, B. Campillo, J. M. Soto.

Witnesses: Charles F. Hotham, Rear Admiral; Hedworth Lambton, Captain.

As Captain Lambton was landing the Government troops fired on his boat, but fortunately without killing any one. I suppose the soldiers could not distinguish the English flag and the flag of truce on the boat, as they were so excited with firing on the Chilian boats which were pouring in a fire from rifles, Gatlings, and Nordenfelt's.

It is but right to say that we owe it to Captain Lambton that the whole town was not burnt. Had he not come on shore the night which followed the fight would have been a terrible one.

H.M.S. Champion will leave on Monday or Tuesday for Iquique.

H.M.S. Warspite has left Iquique for the Behring Sea.

SYSTEMATIC SMUGGLING.

HOW CHINESE EVADE THE CUSTOMS REGULATIONS.

They Employ Agents Who Furnish Them With Forged Canadian Return Certificates as Merchants—They go but Never Return—How one Was Caught.

SEATTLE, May 5.—The Telegraph this morning publishes a four column expose of a Chinese smuggling business which has been carried on on the Sound for many months past, and which for a long time has occupied the attention of Special Treasury Agent, C. H. Mulkey.

Last December his suspicions were very much aroused by the fact that a large number of Chinamen were coming in to the United States from Victoria daily, while very few were going out again. These Chinamen enter as merchants. According to the last Chinese restriction act, no Chinaman, unless he be a merchant or a student is allowed to enter the United States on any pretext whatever. The Chinaman who entered were coolies and nothing more.

Mr. Mulkey quietly set to work to prove how this came about, and to show that the large influx of Chinese was not due to any legal means. The Telegraph this morning gives the whole affair and states that Mr. Mulkey came to Victoria where after making careful inquiries, struck on what he considered a good trail. He engaged a special agent, and with him unearthed a very nice plan which had been concocted to dump upon United States territory large gangs of Chinese coolies.

It appears that in victoria are certain agents or "go-betweens" who, for fixed sums ranging from $50 to $90, guarantee to land any Chinaman in Port Townsend, furnishing him with vouched for return papers as a merchant. The modus operandi is for a Chinaman who desires to go to the States must first obtain from the Canadian customs his Canadian return certificate. This being done he arranges matters with the Chinese agent (two of which reside in Port Townsend). This "agent" procures a paper vouching for the fact that the Chinaman in question was once a merchant in the United States, thus giving him legal authority to return. These papers have to be issued by the customs department at Port Townsend; and despite the fact that many of these papers are known to be forgeries, numbers have been issued and allowed to pass by the inspectors on the steamers plying from Victoria to Port Townsend.

Treasury Agent Mulkey and Special Inspector Cablentz proceeded to work upon this with their special coadjutor in Victoria, and by them a plan was made by which to entrap these Chinese agents and discover if possible the guilty parties among the white officials.

Mr. Mulkey's Victoria agent arranged for the Chinese "go between" to ship over a certain Chinaman, who, it was known, was only a laborer, recently landed at Vancouver, and therefore could not possibly be termed a merchant. The scheme was well carried out and would probably have gone through all right but for one oversight. In giving these return certificates Mr. Fry, of the Victoria customs, generally gave the Chinamen an order, and sends the certigcate on board the steamer to the purser on the Chinaman's notifying Mr. Fry what particular steamer he (the Chinaman) is about to take. In this instance the certificate was given on Saturday, but it was thought that the Chinaman would not go off till Monday and the certificate was accordingly withheld. But the wily Chinee made up his mind to go on Sunday. Just as he was going on board the steamer Mr. Mulkey and his confidential man here spotted him, and Mr. Mulkey decided to become a passenger on the same boat after making sure that the China man did not come off again.

A few hours after, when the steame was in American waters, Mr. Mulkey examined the claimant's certificate, which he found to be a thorough fraud. The Chinaman had a return certificate from British Columbia. He and a party travelling with him were at once arrested, and full inquiry will be made into the case.

It is believed that discoveries will be made which may possibly implicate several United States Customs officials. Speaking of this shipping of Chinese from Victoria, Collector Bradshaw is reported by a newspaper reporter with saying, "The Canadian officials will not co-operate in the matter; they get the $50, and we get Chinamen." This, however, is not the case as stated by Mr. Mulkey and Mr. Coblentz who acknowledge warmly the courteous and gentlemanly treatment they have received at the hands of Collector Milne and his staff who have done everything in their power to assist in the exposure and bringing to justice of wrong doers. It is thought, therefore, that Collector Bradshaw has been imposed upon by some of his subordinates in this matter, or he would not have so expressed himself.

Y. M. I. BANQUET.

The Third Anniversary of the Victoria Branch Suitably Celebrated.

The third anniversary of the Young Men's Institute was celebrated last evening in a fitting manner by a banquet. The dinner was held in the New York Hotel, Mrs. Johnson doing the catering, and if that good lady always treats her guests as liberally and sumptuously as last evening, the reputation of her table will soon be widely known. At nine o'clock President Deasy took the head of the table and discharged the office of master of ceremonies in his always happy manner.

After the eatables had been disposed of toasts and songs were then the order. The first toast was "Pope Leo and Queen Victoria." The rest were as follows: "The Grand Council and Grand President," responded to by Rev. Father Van Sevel, grand lecturer, who gave a short resume of the order; "Brothers of the United States," Bro. J. Teporten; "the Clergy," Rev. Father Nicolaye; "Sister Societies," Messrs. Levin and Mellon; "The Press" was suitably responded to; "Army and Navy," Sergeants Mellon and Levin and Mr. Tribe; "Mr. Deasy, the President," was proposed by Bro. Nolan, who passed many flattering remarks on the worthy manner in which the president had always borne himself as one of the chief officers of the society. The toast was drunk with gusto, Mr. Deasy making a very apt reply. Mayor Grant, who had been unable to be present earlier in the evening, now made his appearance, and he was greeted with loud applause. His health was then drunk, and "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" was sung with good spirit. The Mayor responded with a short, pithy speech. "The Ladies" was responded to by Rev. Father Nicolaye, Mr. McDougall and Mr. Lang. "Mrs. Johnson, our hostess," was the next toast, Mr. Tribe responding. "Absent Friends" was drunk in silence. Bro. Lang then prooosed a toast to the fire fire department, which splendid institution was ably represented by Messrs. Deasy and McDougall. Mayor Grant also responded to this toast, and passed many flattering encomiums on the splendid body of men Victoria enrolled in her fire department. Songs were given by Messrs. Smith, Tribe and Lang. Then, after singing "Auld Lang Syne," and the National Anthem, the banquet broke up, and every one went home feeling that they had spent a most pleasant evening. The president greatly regretted the absence of His Lordship Bishop Lemmens, who, at the last moment, found it impossible to attend.

STEAMER PILOT SEIZED

For Alleged Infraction of the United States Marine Law—Another Lorne Case.

Steamer Pilot was arrested in Port Angeles this morning for an alleged infraction of the American Marine law. The facts of the case are in some respects similar to those which occured in the case of the Lorne which is now a matter of an action at law.

It seems that the Pilot picked up the American bark Valley Forge off the coast of Vancouver Island, and towed her in Canadian waters till she reached Race Rocks where she crossed over and was taken into Port Angeles. The customs officials at once arrested the Canadian vessel, but subsequently released her upon bonds being given. This does not end the case, however. It will be a matter of inquiry by the authorities and may possibly form the subject of another legal action.

OUR OTTAWA LETTER.

STATEMENT OF HOMESTEAD AND PRE-EMPTION ENTRIES.

Revenue From Timber, Mineral and Grazing Lands—Live Stock Returns—Tupper's Prediction Has not Come True—Lands Have not Paid Expenses.

From Our Own Correspondent.]

OTTAWA, Ont., April 28.—The annual report of the Department of the Interior has just been issued. As far as pointing to the development and settlement of the Northwest is concerned, it is anything but a satisfactory document. A statement of the homestead and pre-emption entries and sales which have been made at the several agencies of the department during the years 1889 and 1890 is as follows:

	1889.	1890.
Homestead (acres)...	$696,030	$471,040
Pre-emptions.....	212,651	57,600
Sales	177,092	139,030

This is a heavy decrease, and the Deputy says:

"It is to be regretted that there is so large a reduction in the area of land taken up as homesteads by actual settlers. This, no doubt, is caused by the unfavorable impression created by the drought of the previous year. The area of land granted under pre-emption entry is necessarily very small, as the right to obtain pre-emption entries lapsed under the provisions of the statute on the 1st January, 1890."

REVENUE.

The net revenue for the last departmental year was $454,326.52, as compared with $588,861.81 for the previous year. The decrease is undoubtedly traceable to the same causes as the decrease in homestead entries, and to the indisposition to press settlers for payment of their overdue pre-emptions which you have manifested, in consideration of the comparative shortness of the crops of last season.

TIMBER, MINERAL AND GRAZING LANDS.

The revenue from the above sources during the past year amounted to $125,878, an increase compared with 1889 of $23,145. The timber dues are larger than those of 1889 by $25,878, being for this year $102,950. Of the revenue from timber $45,485 was derived from bonuses, ground rents and royalties on timber cut from lands in the railway belt in British Columbia, being an increase of $27,440 over the previous year. Grazing lands show a decreased revenue as compared with 1889 of $5,840, but the dues for hay were increased by $2,855. The receipts for mineral other than coal, were $631, while the amount received for coal lands was $8,898, being $7,236 more than the previous year. Up to date the total area of coal lands sold was 13,079 acres and the sum realized $135,070.

LIVE STOCK.

The total number of cattle, horses and sheep in what are known at present as the grazing districts of Alberta and Assiniboia, as reported by lessees of ranches, and computed from information derived from other sources, is as follows:

Cattle.....	117,659
Horses.....	16,519
Sheep.....	44,762

While the winter of 1889-90 was very hard, and reduced the crop of calves largely, last summer, the remainder of the season was most favorable in every way. The live stock industry is clearly in a flourishing condition, and export to European markets has commenced. So far, fortunately for those engaged in the business, a good and paying market has been found at their very doors. The beef supplied to the Indians and mounted police, instead of being imported from the United States, as in the years previous to the establishment of the ranching industry, is now procured at home; and, as I understand, beef is now used extensively for the maintenance of the Indians, instead of the Chicago pork which at one time was supplied.

SMELTERS AT GOLDEN AND REVELSTOKE.

In 1887, while it was still anticipated that the precious metals in the railway belt in British Columbia would belong to the Government of Canada, the late Minister of the Interior, the Hon. Thos. White, made arrangements with people of responsible financial standing to give them a free grant of 320 acres of land in consideration of the erection of a smelter at the points above mentioned. The order in-council the 15th Oct., 1889, sanctioned this arrangement; and the Superintendent of Mines has reported that smelting works have been constructed at both places. At Revelstoke the land grant of 320 acres has been conveyed to the company, and at Golden there merely remain to be adjusted some matters of detail, upon the settlement of which that subsidy will also be conveyed. Both smelters are now completely equipped and in running order, and as there appears to be no doubt that the section of British Columbia tributary to them is rich in productive ores, especially in those bearing silver, it is anticipated that the works will find immediate profitable employment. Their existence, of course, will be of great importance in encouraging the development of the mining industry.

CROP ACREAGE.

The acreage under crop in Manitoba last season, as shown by the statistical records of the Provincial Government, was 1,053,263 acres, or about 160,000 acres in excess of the previous season. The weather during seeding time was well suited for carrying on the work, but growth in the early part of the season was backward. After the month of May there was a great improvement in the weather; the progress of the crops was consequently rapid, and there seemed to be an excellent prospect of a very abundant harvest. The result, though not as satisfactory as expected in the early summer, is above the average.

TUPPER'S PREDICTION.

The deputy minister, Mr. Burgess, makes reference to the prediction made by Charles Tupper, on a memorandum prepared by himself, showing that the revenue from Northwest lands would, before the year 1891, have paid for the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway. As a matter of fact these lands have not defrayed the cost of their administration. This is what Mr. Burgess says.

There has been a good deal of discussion in Parliament respecting the estimate made in 1883 by Sir Charles Tupper, upon a short memorandum I had prepared for his information, as to the revenue likely to be derived from Dominion lands. The result has proved that the estimate was too hopeful; but this, I think, is a proper time to point out that there are facts in connection with the revenue to which it related that have been entirely overlooked. The lands which the Government intended selling at the date when this prediction was made have since either been thrown open for free homestead entry, as, for example, the even-numbered sections in Southern Manitoba and the south-eastern portion of the Territories, which were then under reserve for the purpose of being sold, or have been granted to colonization railway companies, as, for instance, the Manitoba South Western Railway Company, and others. When all the lands have been earned now granted various railway companies as subsidies, valuing them at $2.50 per acre, the Deputy Minister says that this will amount to over $40,000,000. This memorandum did its duty at the time, and the least said of it the better.

SLABTOWN.

Naval and Ordnance News.

For the sufferers by the loss of Cowper Coles' ship, the Captain, there was raised in England $300,000, for the Eurydice $115,000, for the Atalanta $45,000, and now for the Serpent $60,000.

The British Admiralty seems to have become alarmed lest, with the navy as it is expected to be in 1895, it will be impossible to supply England's coaling stations with the fuel necessary for the vessels in the event of war. The English colliers have to pass along the coast of France to get to their coaling stations, and these would need strong convoy in case of war, and for which England has not got the cruisers.

Lord Brassey, in his paper before the Naval Architects on the "Future Policy of Warship Building," deprecated the construction in the future of larger battle ships than the Centurion and Barfleur. A displacement of 10,500 tons would give a speed of 17 or 18 knots, an armament of four 29 tons guns and a protection of 12 inch armor. It is better to have 168,000 tons distributed in 16 vessels of this size rather than twelve or fourteen thousand. In the opinion of Lord Brassey, "there are few admirals who would not make some sacrifice in individual power for a decided advantage in numbers."

The name of the new British battleship is to be changed from Renown o Empress of India. Speaking of the supposed sailor superstition concerning names, the Army and Navy Gazette says: "We venture to doubt if the present day sailor is very superstitious, and we are very certain that numbers of them take an interest in the histories of the names of the ship in which they are required to serve. They like to feel that a ship with a glorious past is perpetuated in that to which they belong. On the other hand, if our sailors objected to put to sea in a ship named after one which had been lost, wrecked, burnt, or taken by the enemy, and their wishes were acceded to, it is very certain that nearly every vessel in the British navy would require a new appellation."

The theory that the small bore "covered" bullets will lessen the amount of mutilation and crippling by making cleaner and smoother wounds does not appear to be sustained by facts. The Bulletin Medical reports a different result from the first use of the Mannlicher 8 mm. rifle in suppressing the riots at Beila, April 23, 1890. One hundred and forty-one shots were fired and 18 persons hit with steel-covered bullets, 4 being killed and 14 wounded, of whom only 5 recovered, and 2 of those dying of their wounds who survived longest not being operated upon; 7 died within 10 hours, and 2 others in the course of a few days. One of the killed and 5 of the wounded (3 of whom subsequently died) were struck by ricochets. Most of the hits took effect in the trunk; in all cases where the bowels were perforated death took place.

A Philosophical Family.

Amelia has pimples, and sores in the head.
From humors internal her nose has grown red;
She's a boil on her neck that is big as a bell,
But in other respects she is doing quite well.

And pa has dyspepsia, malaria and gout,
His hands with salt-rheum are all broken out;
He is prone to rheumatics that make his legs swell,
But in other respects he is doing quite well.

And ma has night sweats and a troublesome cough,
That all of our doctors can't seem to drive off;
She wakes every night and coughs quite a spell,
But in other respects she is doing quite well.

There is nothing like philosophy to help one to bear the ills of life, but in the case of this family what is most needed is a good supply of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It would cleanse Amelia's bad blood, cure pa's ailments, and check ma's cough. The "Golden Medical Discovery, by its action on the liver, cleanses the system of impurities. It cures humors, ulcers, boils, scrofula, salt-rheum, erysipelas, and all kinds of sores and swellings. The only guaranteed blood-purifier.

Worthy of Confidence.

Those who have used it praise it! Mrs. Geo. Ward writes from Josephine, Ont., concerning Hagyard's Yellow Oil: "As a sure cure for chapped hands, swellings, sore throat, etc., I recommend Hagyard's Yellow Oil to all."

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria

YOUNG HOPES BLIGHTED.

Kamloops Swain Rudely Deprived of His Heart's Love---Matters From the Mines.

[From the Revelstoke Star.]

Last Saturday morning there was a young man on the east-bound express who showed signs of great, but subdued grief at the station here. Inquiry led to the information that he had been a clerk in a store at Kamloops, and that having attempted and succeeded for a time in carrying off the young lady of his love, a girl barely in her teens, per-haps not more than 12 years of age. The youthful couple engaged a sleeper to Pullman, and intended going to the National Park to spend a honeymoon, and perhaps had hopes that they might find some minister to make them doubly one. Their fond hopes of Elysian bliss were rudely shattered at Malachie—the celebrated spot where Nicholas Spike was driven to commemorate the completion of the C. P. R. by their elopement. Here the stepfather of the young girl put in an appearance and exercised his parental authority. There was a scene, but the lady was firm and the lover was disappointed. Two trains carried each of the elopers in a different direction, the young man continuing his honeymoon trip to Banff alone, lamenting his sad fate and when last heard of was declaring his young hopes were hopelessly blighted and life would be a bitter blank in future.

The girl was sent to a convent at Kamloops, so report says, but managed to escape, and started for Banff on foot along the sunny banks of the Thompson river. It was thought for a time she had given a tragic ending to the story by drowning herself, her cloak being found near the river, but some boys saw her about ten miles from Kamloops and informed her father of her whereabouts.

Messrs. Andy Hunker, Dan McDonald, John Neilson, Geo. Laforme and Burnett, the first three mentioned having worked during the winter on the Consolation Company's property on French Creek, and the last two on Geo. Laforme's ranch, arrived in town on Tuesday afternoon, bringing with them the golden result of their labors. They have been doing well of late, but we wish to give exact figures. They go back again in a fortnight and intend to do big things before winter. They came down in two days, coming down Frenchie Creek here on rafts in the high water.

Mr. Parks has bought out D. C. Ellivray's share in the Consolation, which he considers good property.

The Smith Creek men had began washing just before the French Creek men came down.

Mr. Holden continues his fishing in the Thompson stream, and has increased his plant.

Mr. Ordell has settled down to work for Geo. Laforme, and hopes to raise up a good crop of vegetables in the spring.

The steamer Lytton made her first trip to the Dalles this week. She took about 100 passengers to Sproat, and a heavy cargo of freight. The boat from the Dalles up was not so full.

Little Child Shall Lead Them.

Some time recently a little girl of 11 summers, the daughter of a Montreal merchant, was the means of directing to the fountain of health a well-known citizen of that city. The little girl, accidentally hearing the lady complain to her father about her nervous weakness and headaches, immediately spoke forward and said: "Oh, dear, papa, ——, won't you take Paine's Celery Compound for your sickness? My mother has been using it, and she is well and happy."

—— was so impressed with the child's seriousness and manner, that inquiries were at once made about the matter, and every word was found true. Mrs. —— sent to her druggist for a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound and commenced its use. After using the first bottle she was convinced she had found the proper remedy for her troubles, and decided to continue its use. In five week's time she was almost as strong as ever before, looked good, slept well, and had increased in weight. Paine's Celery Compound accomplished all this in so short a time that her friends were truly astonished and surprised.

Now, if you suffer as did Mrs. ——, remember that Paine's Celery Compound is able to do the same great work for you.

SEA BIRD ISLAND.

A Settler's Version Regarding the Settlement of the Reserve by Whites.

A settler from Agassiz has been giving the Columbian some particulars concerning the late trouble regarding the settlement of 40 white men, with their families, on Sea Bird Island Reserve. The squatters took up claims on the Island on February 1, and were ordered to leave by the Indian agent a month later, which they promised to do. Last Tuesday week Mr. McTiernan visited the Island and found the squatters had all left. He put padlocks on the doors of each house, and since then there has been no attempt by the squatters to retake possession. The version of the agent is that the Indians were excited and wanted the squatters expelled; the version of the settlers is that the Indians who claim to own the reserve were anxious that the white men should take possession of it. They even offered to give the squatters a written lease of the land, free of any rent, for five years, or for such time as the Government required to come to a decision in the matter. Two of the chiefs interested in the reserve offered to appear before Mr. L. A. Agassiz, J. P., and make oath to the effect that the Indians wished the white settlers to have the land. Only one Indian has resided permanently on the reserve; others have visited the island for a few weeks at odd times.

The reserve was given to Chief Lequequiton and 73 Yale Indians, who resided at Yale, and occupied land wanted for the townsite. The condition of the gift was that the chief and his Indians were to leave Yale and take up their residence on the Island within three years. This condition was never complied with, and the squatters claim that the Indians have forfeited their right to the land. Chief Lequequiton still lives at Yale, and nearly half of the Indians included in the agreement are dead. Since the late occupation of the island by the white squatters, the missionaries have been putting Indians on the reserve from Popcum and Cheam, who, the squatters claim, have no right or title to the land. Another thing, these Indians have nearly two thousand acres of land on the Mainland, of which they cultivate less than one hundred acres.

Artistic Photographers.

A few of our Canadian cities can boast of photographers who can compete successfully with any in the world, as far as beautiful and finely finished photography is concerned. Of course such artists are largely patronized by those who value good work, and who pay no more for it than the ordinary photographer would charge.

Every passing day adds hundreds of consumers to the list of those who use only Diamond Dyes for home dyeing. They sell at 10 cents per package, and always color more goods, and do it in such a satisfactory manner, that the operator is delighted and happy. No dull colors; no loss of goods; no time lost, and you are always able to recommend them to friends.

From the Pacific Coast.

We quote from a letter recently received from Miss Eleanor Pope, Port Haney, B.C. "For sore throat, coughs, croup, bruises, etc., Hagyard's Yellow Oil is the best thing I have ever used."

FREIGHT RATE ON SUGAR.

The Montreal and Halifax sugar refiners, and the wholesale and retail grocers of British Columbia, who have handled the product of these refineries, are protesting against the increased freight rates on the transcontinental lines. Formerly, the rate on sugar from Montreal was $1 per hundred and from Halifax, $1.15. When the Vancouver refinery was started, the freight rates from Montreal and Halifax were increased to $1.15 and $1.35, respectively, which practically excluded the Eastern article and gave the British Columbia market to the Vancouver refinery. The freight rate became a sort of protective policy in the interest of the local refinery, and it is to be assumed will be endorsed by all good protectionists in Victoria. The men who voted for a high tariff against the United States will not object to a freight tariff against the Eastern Canadians, for it is a phase of the protective policy they profess to love, although it militates against a section of our own country. But the protectionist is always inconsistent, and so it is not surprising that they look upon the increased freight rates with disfavor. We do not know that the present tariff is excessive, or that the railway companies can carry sugar 3000 miles at less rate than they now charge, at a profit; but as they carried it before at $3 per ton less, it is assumed by those directly concerned that the increase was made for the benefit of Vancouver. The effect has been, practically, to drive the Eastern sugar out of the Victoria market, and if we can credit quotations of prices given by the Columbian, it has also given a monopoly of the market along the line of railway to the fortunate Vancouver concern. The Columbian, on the authority of an experienced grocer, gives the prices of Vancouver granulated sugar at various points, as follows: Vancouver and Victoria, seven and a-half cents, Westminster, seven and three-fifths cents; Calgary, seven and fifteen-sixteenths cents; Lethbridge, eight and one-sixteenth cents; Medicine Hat, seven and thirteen-sixteenth cents; Regina, seven and five-eights cents; Brandon seven and three-eighths cents; Winnipeg, seven and three-sixteenths cents. The price at Winnipeg is thus less than it is at the point of shipment, which is, we suppose, one of the anomalies of the trade, or perhaps a curiosity of the transportation rates, plus competition. At Winnipeg, of course, the Eastern sugar is met.

MORE PROVINCIALISM AND LESS DOMINIONISM.

Those who, either from business reasons or from motives of curiosity, have kept run of the Colonist in the matter of Dominion politics, will have some difficulty in reconciling its present attitude with that of the last two weeks' preceding the recent Dominion election. Then the Government was all right, now the Government is all wrong. Then, if it were true that the Government had neglected this province, it must have had cogent and patriotic reasons for it. Now, however, unless the demands of the province are complied with, such reasons are inadmissible. The Province must have a pull at the pap bottle whether it is in the interest of Ottawa or not. Patriotism requires that a modicum of the lymph of the public funds be injected into this Province immediately. This has been the attitude of the Colonist toward the Government for some weeks. The demand of the Colonist for lymph, of the quality aforesaid, has amounted to importunity. In the main we are agreed with the Colonist. This Province should get her share of the life-giving liquid. It is not the correct thing that the funds contributed to the public exchequer by this Province should be devoted to the bribing of the Maritime provinces. And we shall also say that we are agreed with the Colonist that it was a shabby trick of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries to send a commissioner to this coast masquerading as a man entirely unconnected with Dominion concerns. It was very sneaking of young Mr. TUPPER to do that. Why should not Mr. WILMOT have disclosed himself? But such are the methods of the Dominion Government. Small wonder is it that it carries its Pinkertonism further and tampers with Her Majesty's mails. But what is the remedy? The remedy, as the TIMES has on several occasions pointed out, is less Dominionism and more Provincialism; less paternalism and more local self-government. Why should the Dominion Government control the fisheries? South of us each State, controls its own fisheries; why should not British Columbia control hers? Who has a deeper interest in British Columbia fisheries than British Columbia herself? What British Columbia wants is the power to administer her own affairs. Paradoxical as it may appear, State Sovereignty explains the solidity of the United States. The very flimsyness of the connecting tie between the State and Central Government is the grand cause of the American Union. The inability of Washington to meddle with local politics keeps peace in the American family of States. A similar relation by the Provinces to Ottawa is what is wanted in Canada. There will never cease to be friction until Ottawa is shorn of the power to be meddlesome. Just so long as Ottawa has a constitutional right to meddle with local affairs, just so long will the Provinces be made the dupes of either incompetent or designing politicians. Indeed a perfectly competent and honest central government would be unable to administer our affairs as satisfactorily as we ourselves. A fish commissioner at the instigation of Ottawa visits this Province incog. He studies the fisheries two days, and on the strength of the exhaustive information gained, indites an adverse report. But comment is superfluous. The remarkable feature about the business is that the Province is able to endorse the methods of Toryism.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The postponement of the trial at Quebec of Mr. TARTE for his charges against Mr. MCGREEVY prevents us, says the Toronto Mail, from getting as speedily as is desirable a legal determination of the merits of the case. It is alleged that the fault lies with the Crown—that is to say, the Quebec Crown—as the Local Government obstructed progress. But it is explained that while the Crown at Quebec caused the delay, there was a wise purpose underlying its action. As a matter of fact it was robbing the Crown at Ottawa of the excuse, based upon the progress of legal proceedings, it might enter against a parliamentary enquiry. It looks as if a little too much political strategy were being imported into this serious moral question. At all events the explanation of the postponement is exceedingly weak. If the Ottawa Government can refuse an enquiry because the case is in the courts, it can as well do so on the ground that the case has not yet been tried as upon the ground that it is under trial. A Government, however, that would oppose enquiry into a charge of robbery of the treasury for the reason that a libel suit has been entered in defence would have a very poor case. It is obvious that if the entering of a suit is a good point against investigation, it is only necessary in the future to take action in the courts in order to stifle all charges of official misconduct.

CORRIG COLLEGE OPENED

By His Honor the Lieut.-Governor This Morning—An Interesting Ceremony.

Corrig College was formally opened this morning by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, and although the weather was not in its brightest humor, there was a goodly attendance of guests. Principal Church, fully robed, received His Honor the Lieut.-Governor and the other visitors at the college gates.

The following were among the invited guests: The Lord Bishop of Columbia, Sir J. Trutch, K.C.M.G.; Sir Matthew Begbie, Chief Justice; Hon. J. Robson, Premier and Minister of Education; Hon. D. W. The visitors were conducted through the establishment which is a model of its kind, and afterwards took their seat in the well lighted and cheery schoolroom, where Principal Church made the opening address. He said:

May it please your honor, before asking you to declare the new buildings of this, our college open, it seems but fitting that I should briefly review its past history, glance at the circumstances of its present establishment and indicate what (with God's blessing) are our hopes and intentions as to the future.

Our college is the oldest of its kind in British Columbia, dating back to the sixties, and having been successively conducted by Archdeacons Woods and Hogg in the old archdeaconry and later on by the Rev. C. J. Brenton, first at Ross Bay and then again at its old home in Vancouver House. During this period of time, while Victoria was still a thing of the future, it filled a much needed want, and many of the most successful and respected of the present citizens of British Columbia and the neighboring states have reason to be thankful for the education which has since fitted them for spheres of usefulness and honor. But, sir, on my arrival in the colony and acceptance of the principalship last year, I found there was a wide spread feeling that the day of hired school-rooms or dwelling houses was past, and that the commanding position which Victoria was rapidly assuming as the greatest tourist and residential centre of the North Pacific coast, demanded that new and suitable premises erected with a view to educational requirements should at once be commenced. It is not for me, sir, to say with what degree of success we have endeavored to meet the demand; this only, I will venture to remark, the selection of a site offered but little difficulty, inasmuch as we at once perceived that while there was but one Victoria on the Pacific coast, there was but one Beacon Hill in Victoria. Here, sir, outside the unhealthy and (to a youth) morally dangerous atmosphere of the crowded streets of a great city, with unrivalled recreation grounds of 200 acres fronting us, suited for every form of manly and ennobling sport, if our pleasure be as epicures says a duty, our duty must prove a pleasure. The buildings themselves are at present designed to accommodate 25 boarders, while the class rooms have been arranged for 50 more day students. A gymnasium, stabling and bicycle sheds are in course of erection. Finally, sir, turning from the building to the purposes for which it has been erected, we feel that it is most appropriate and fitting that within a few days of your honor's signifying your gracious assent to the amended bill for the foundation of a British Columbian university, you should have seen fit by condescending to be present with us to-day to stamp with your approval our endeavor to provide and prepare students, not only for a commercial and professional life but also for the examinations of that university when it shall be founded. For one of the purposes of this our college is to act as a connecting link between the excellent elementary training in facts supplied by our Free and High schools, of which we are now justly proud, and that highest form of education in character, manners, methods of facts with which in a corporate university we soon hope to be equally gratified. But, sir, while a college training is directed possibly to fit one for a professional or university, a scientific or a commercial career, it regards as equally important the harmonious development of the spiritual, moral and physical nature of the scholar, which seems most possible under the individual and small class college system, in which the master is absolutely on the same social and moral and a higher mental platform than the best of his scholars; and the lad associates during his unripe years with pure, obedient, well-behaved and industrious comrades. Your honor will have remarked from the commencement of our proceedings that the spirit of our college work aims at being distinctly and deeply religious, so while necessarily undenominational. Fundamenta ejus super montibus sanctis.

Relying upon the truth, that "example is better than precept," it will be our constant endeavor to see that the masters and all connected with the institution shall offer to the pupils examples of religious reference, purity in word and deed, temperance, politeness, loyalty and industry. I now beg respectfully to request your honor to declare the new buildings of Corrig College, open.

His honor proceeded to open the college in a short speech, in the course of which he congratulated the worthy principal on his happy selection of a site, and referred to the advantages of Victoria as an educational as well as commercial centre. He prophecied a brilliant future for the college and the city and expressed the pleasure he felt in declaring the college open.

Hon. Mr. Robson, Premier of the Province, followed in a warm and spirited address of congratulation and encouragement to the worthy principal on his enterprise and energy. He felt sure success would attend those efforts, and concluded with a few words of wisdom and advice to the boys, who frequently applauded his remarks.

Mr. H. C. Beeton also spoke, and a few reminiscences from Hon. D. W. Higgins made the latter gentleman's remarks highly interesting.

The proceedings closed with a vote of thanks and cheers for His Honor, cheers for Mr. Church, and the singing of the national anthem, after which the visitors repaired to the dining-room for refreshments.

Tourist Spoons and Opera Glasses.

Mr. A. A. Clayton, of the Diamond Palace, Government street, has now completed and ready for inspection, a large stock of tourist spoons, suitable for souvenirs of Victoria. In the bowls of the spoons are etched scenes of the Gorge, Dunsmuir Castle, Mount Baker, and other pictures of Victoria scenery. He has also just received a consignment of beautiful opera glasses, in pearl and Russia leather, which are pronounced the finest ever imported to this city.

A Few Facts.

The Empress of India brought over 1500 tons of freight, 800 tons of which were Victoria freight. This leaves 700 tons for Vancouver and Sound ports Vancouver's portion was under 100 tons. If these statements are not true will Vancouver papers please publish the as yet unpublished consignee list?

The Lorne Returns.

Persuaded Not to Do Wrong.

The festive burglar has visited a house on Princess avenue within the past night or two. He tried one other house, and having been detected at the front, went to the back door. There he was greeted by a bulldog that while otherwise of a gentle and inoffensive nature, would not be very ceremonious with a midnight intruder on his owner's premises.

Police Court Jottings.

A Chinaman, charged with stealing a length of hose from a house on Broughton street was sent up for three months by the police magistrate this morning, and an Indian received one-third of that time for having a bottle of whiskey in his possession. J. J. Armstrong, charged with assault, did not appear, and a warrant was issued for his arrest. A Chinese vag was fined $10.

The Silver King Mine.

It is a misstatement that there is any deposit bid for the Silver King mine. The facts are that a bona fide offer of $1,200,000 was made, and the agent in Victoria cabled the offer to England. This has, however, been declined, the owners preferring to go on with the development of the mine. No money whatever is on deposit, nor has the offer in question been increased or repeated.

A Night for the Juniors.

There was a large number of grown people at the Y.M.C.A. rooms last evening to witness the presentation of prizes to the boys who were successful in the athletic competition a few days ago. A good programme had been prepared and was successfully gone through. During the evening the boys presented their teacher, Mr. Boyd, with a gold-headed cane. Refreshments were served.

Sale Completed.

The sale of the Queen City Mills, owned by Johnson, Walker & Flett, to the Taylor Mill Company, of Seattle, was completed to-day, and the first installment of $5000 has been paid. The price for land, buildings, machinery, business, etc., was $35,000. The purchasers will take possession on the 18th inst., and Messrs. Taylor and McCarter, old Victorians, will arrive in a few days to make preparations.

She Will Be Used.

The little steam yacht which was built two years ago for private parties, and which has been lying on Spratt's wharf ever since, is to be used this summer. The Albion Iron Works have received the contract to put her in running order, and are now getting ready to do so. She will be fitted with compound engines of about 50 h.p. and a marine boiler. When completed she will be one of the handiest pleasure boats in the harbor.

The Firemen's Tournament.

In answer to a letter asking what date the Northwestern Firemen's Association would prefer to hold their tournament in this city, C. W. Watts, the secretary, writes to say that July 1st had been suggested. He also states that a meeting of the Association will be held shortly, when the matter will be fully considered. The firemen should be given every encouragement as their visit would be very beneficial to the city.

To Meet President Harrison.

In order that Victorians may take part in the reception to President Harrison at Seattle, on Wednesday, round trip tickets will be issued from here at single rate. Excursionists will leave this city on Tuesday and return on Thursday evening. The City of Seattle will carry the President and his party from Tacoma to Seattle, and the Kingston will act as her escort on the trip, on the morning of the 6th, she being on her way to Victoria.

Where the Lepers Will Live.

The city has secured Darcy Island for the purpose of putting the Chinese lepers thereon away from healthy people. Plans are now being made for a suitable building, and proper arrangements will be made for the safe care of the lepers. It has not yet been decided who shall live with these people and care for them, but the probability is that it will be one of their own kind. This was the object of the aldermanic trip on Saturday.

He Pulled the Ropes.

For some time past Sergt. Walker has been closely watching a Chinaman, who was always standing in a certain spot on Comorant street. The Chinaman's actions aroused the Sergeant's suspicions, so last evening he arrested him for vagrancy and this morning John paid $10 under the vagrant act. It now appears that the Chinaman had an object in standing in one place, that being to notify gamblers by ropes attached to bells of the approach of the police.

The Julia Arrives.

The British bark Julia, Capt. Ribu, was towed into Esquimalt last evening by the tug Pilot, after a trip of 171 days from Cardiff. The captain reports an uneventful trip, which was made long on account of the unusually light winds encountered. She spoke the bark H.C. Cann, Capt. J. C. Foote, of Yarmouth, N.S. 31, 58 S. lat., 92 W. long., 59 days from Port Discovery for Calloo, all well aboard. The Julia has 920 tons of general merchandise consigned to Turner, Beeton & Co., which she will commence discharging in a few days.

Let us Reciprocate.

It is more than likely that a large number of Victorians will avail themselves of the opportunity of a trip to the Sound this evening. The Mayor and some of the aldermen will go over to take in the presidential reception, and it is but fitting that as many of our citizens as feel inclined to do so should make the trip, and demonstrate their good feeling towards our neighbors. The people of the Sound cities are most friendly and cordial towards Victoria on all her fete days; their interests are bound up with ours, and they naturally feel that we should draw closer the bonds of good fellowship. Let the turn out be a good one or none.

Both Died.

The death of Mrs. Captain Howard Wrigley, while crossing the Atlantic, has been mentioned. A letter from a brother at Plas Newydd, Ruthvin, North Wales, to Miss McCandlish, of this city says that both Captain and Mrs. Wrigley died of pneumonia on board the Aurania while returning to England. Captain Wrigley was about 28 years of age and Mrs. Wrigley about 24. They resided, while in Victoria, in Miss McCandlish's residence, and left here on the 17th March. They were in love with Victoria and were going home to make arrangements to come here to reside permanently. The announcement of the death of both will be sad news to their Victoria friends.

The Late Wm. Fisher.

Wm. Fisher, J.P., of Esquimalt, died last night at Fern Hill, Esquimalt Road, at the residence of his son-in-law, Hon. C. E. Pooley, Q. C. The deceased has been ill for several months, and the immediate cause of death was weakening of the action of the heart. He was born in Cumberland, Eng., in 1811. In 1832 he became junior partner in the firm of Wm. Fisher & Son, Liverpool, owners of the line of steamers which was superseded by the Allan line. He was elected to the Liverpool Town Council in 1848, and became a member of the Liverpool Dock Company in 1849. He occupied a leading position in Liverpool until 1860, when he came to British Columbia. In 1861 he went as a delegate to England, to secure Imperial aid and a mail subsidy for improved postal communication. He returned to British Columbia in 1863 and settled in Esquimalt. He was a member of the committee (aided by Governor Kennedy), for exploring Vancouver Island; chairman of the board of education of Esquimalt and Craigflower; a road commissioner, etc. He was an unsuccessful candidate in 1871 for the representation of Esquimalt in the Provincial Legislature, to which he was returned at the general election of 1874. H served for many years as a justice of the peace at Esquimalt. In 1884 he married the second daughter of John Birch, a leading cotton spinner of Manchester, among the surviving members of his family being Mr. I. B Fisher, manager of the Bank of British Columbia at New Westminster, and Mrs. Pooley, wife of Hon. C. E. Pooley. The funeral will take place on Thursday, at 1 o'clock, from the residence of Mr. Pooley After service at Esquimalt the body will be interred at Ross Bay cemetery.

THE M'KILLICAN CLOCK.

THE NEW CLOCK FORMALLY STARTED BY THE MAYOR.

His Worship Compliments Mr. Redfern on the Way the Work Was Done—A Presentation—Mr. Redfern's Reply—A Correct Description of the Clock.

At noon to-day the new town clock was formally started by His Worship Mayor Grant, who cut the string which held the pendulum with a handsome pair of scissors with silver handles, which was presented to him by Mr. C. E. Redfern, as a memento of the occasion. The handles of the scissors were manufactured by Mr. Miller, Mr. Redfern's jeweller, and are very handsome.

After the machinery had been started and the bell had rung out the hour of noon, His Worship pronounced it formally started. He said he was thoroughly satisfied that Mr. Redfern had done the city justice, and he was sure, after closely watching the working of the clock during the past week, that the city could not have done better. The clock is one that Victorians will justly be proud of. It was a marvel to him how the large machinery was started without the slightest effort, and how smoothly the machinery worked. The people would shortly, if they had not already, find the clock a great convenience to them. He had not consulted anyone on the subject, but there were two gentlemen who had a claim to have the clock named after them, viz., Aldermen Robertson and McKillican. It was mainly through the efforts of the former that the question of a clock was considered while the latter was at present chairman of the Hall Committee. He thought, however, that the one in office should take precedence and, therefore, he took pleasure in naming it the McKillican Clock. The clock is the largest one in the province, but Victoria always expects to be ahead in anything of this kind. In conclusion he would move a vote of thanks to Mr. Redfern who had completed his contract three months' ahead of time and deserved the thanks of the community for the manner in which he had done the work. The vote of thanks was carried with a unanimous chorus of ayes.

Mr. Redfern, in replying, said he was much gratified at the vote of thanks which showed that his work had been appreciated. He had to give Mr. Edwards, who so ably assisted him in putting up the clock, a great deal of credit and a great deal also relies on the way the machinery was made. He had to thank the makers for the faithful manner in which they had carried out their contract and also Mr. Northcott for the assistance he had rendered. The clock was, of course, the largest in the province but although not the largest on the coast, it was the best. During a recent visit to San Francisco he inspected the clock in the Chronicle building supposed to be the best on the coast, which, although a splendid piece of mechanism was not as good as the one which had just been started. The bell was also a very fine one as those who have heard it could testify. The reason he was anxious to obtain the contract was because he knew he could place the making of it in good hands. The firm that he had employed were thoroughly reliable and the city had a clock that would be good for years to come and one that will be a monument to the city in after generations. He also had much pleasure in erecting the first tower clock in the Province.

Before adjourning those present were shown how the clock worked by Mr. Redfern and his assistant Mr. Edwards. The following is a correct description of the new clock, supplied by Mr. Redfern:

The fine new clock just placed on the tower of the City Hall by Mr. C. E. Redfern, who employed the eminent firm of Messrs. Gillett & Johnson, clock manufacturers and bell founders, of Croydon, to make it, has been constructed only of the best materials, every improvement to ensure perfect time-keeping in every detail has been applied, and as a piece of mechanism is well worthy of a brief description. The clock has been made to show the time upon four skeleton iron dials, each measuring seven feet six inches in diameter and glazed with opal glass for illumination; besides showing the time upon the four dials, it strikes the hours and half hours upon a bell weighing 2170 pounds. The works of the clock are of the best quality and finish. All of the wheels are of solid gun metal, highly polished, and the teeth cut by the most improved machinery. The principal or main wheels measure as much as 14 and 16 inches in diameter, respectively, for the part which drives the hands and the part that strikes the hours and half hours. The pinions are also solid steel, hardened and tempered. The frame which contains the wheels is on the makers' improved horizontal system and is of solid iron cast in one piece not bolted together thereby having the advantage of being perfectly rigid. It measures 3ft. 6in. by 2ft. 6in. by 2ft. 6in. The measurement is what is known as the double three-legged "gravity" which is universally acknowledged to be the best for accurate time-keeping The pendulum which occupies one-half seconds to each beat is a compensated one and is over 8 feet in length. It is composed of zinc and iron tubes so arranged as to withstand all variations of temperature, thus keeping the pendulum rod always the same length, upon which much of the exactness of time-keeping depends. The pendulum is also fitted with a heavy cast iron cylindrical "bob" weighing upwards of 120 pounds. There is a screw and nut at the foot of the pendulum for regulating. An engraved and silvered set hands dial is fixed on the movement so that anyone within the tower can observe the time as shown by the outside hands and (if necessary) adjust them. The clock is also fitted with an improved maintaining power and winding gear, the former keeps the clock going during the process of winding, the latter prevents any damage being done should the winder accidentaly turn the wrong way. The motive power is derived from solid cast iron weights which weigh altogether over 14 cwt., and are suspended by means of steel wire lines of great strength and durability. As the weights when wound up are out of sight of the person winding the clock, some means was devised to prevent accidents from over-winding. To effect this Mr. Redfern has attached a contrivance which causes the weights when wound up to the proper place, to ring a bell loudly in the room where the winding is done.

Besides being the makers of the clock, Messrs. Gillett & Johnson are the founders of the bell upon which the hours and half hours are struck. This bell weighs 2170 pounds and measures 47 inches across the mouth. The note it gives when struck is F sharp. The hammer which strikes the bell weighs 45 pounds. The whole of the work of manufacturing the clock and bell has been carried out by Messrs. Gillett & Johnston, at their factory at Croydon. The same firm are the makers of the clocks and bells at Fredericton city hall (Canada), Toronto fire hall (Canada), Durban town hall (South Africa), Dunedin town hall (New Zealand), Sydney (Australia) town hall, Royal Courts of Justice, London; St. James Palace, London, and numerous others in all parts of the world.

COINING MEXICAN COINS.

Values and Designs Will Probably Be Slightly Altered by the Republic.

General Pacheco, the Mexican Minister of Public Works, has recently submitted to the Mexican Congress a report on the proposed changes in the coinage with a bill to carry them into effect. The report, says the Chicago Herald, says that the design on the Mexican dollar should be much better as a precaution against counterfeiting. The present design was adopted in 1823, and an unsuccessful attempt was made to improve it in 1867. That failure and the report that Asiatic countries would not accept the new coin impelled Congress to re-establish the old design, which was done so completely that the substitute bore the words "ocho [eight] reales" instead of a decimal subdivision, while the fineness of the silver was expressed in "dinero" and "grammes."

In order to improve the current silver dollar "un peso" (one dollar) are to take the place of "ocho reales." Instead of indicating the fineness in "dineros" and "grammes," it will be expressed by a simple decimal number. To do so a slight change will be made in the fineness, which will be 0.903 instead of 0.9277. The present design will be better executed and rendered more artistic.

General Pacheco says that he would like to reform the monetary system of the Republic and put it on a more scientific basis, but he has decided to make only these changes, because the Mexican dollar is not only the basis of the National coinage, but it is also quoted in the principal markets of the world and is current in Asiatic countries and even in some of the Antilles. As regards small currency, it is proposed to coin a new piece—20 cents. The design of the 20, 10 and 5-cent pieces will be similar to that on the dollar. The coining of 50-cent and 25-cent pieces is to be discontinued, as they do not harmonize with the decimal system.

In respect to gold it has been deemed expedient to make some important changes. General Pacheco says: "In the first place it is proposed to raise the fineness from .875 to .900, the former grade being an exception for which there is no warrant. In the next place this would place the two metals in the ratio of 1 to 15½, which is the legal ratio in several nations. Besides, this would lessen the depreciation of silver, which now stands in the ratio of 1 to 16½."

In the interest of silver no smaller gold piece than $5 is to be coined. The design of the gold coin is to be improved and altered. On the obverse it will resemble the silver coin, but on the reverse will be the bust of Hidalgo, in order that no one may mistake a gold coin for a silver one.

Copper coins will bear on the obverse the National arms, as on the silver dollar. The executive is to be empowered to use bronze instead of pure copper, as it wears better and is not likely to be melted down for use in the arts.

The bill which General Pacheco has prepared declares that the monetary unit shall be the silver dollar, .903 fine and 27.073 grammes in weight—that is, as at present. The executive is given ample authority to carry the bill into effect.

HOW TALLEYRAND WAS LAMED.

The Vexed Question Settled by Talleyrand Himself.

The cause of Talleyrand's lameness has long been a matter of dispute. During the fifty-two years which have elapsed since his death, his deformity has been accounted for in all manner of ways.

Some stories have it that the defect was congenital; others that it was occasioned by an accident which befell him in his infancy. The most curious explanation of all is that offered by a writer in the Quarterly Review. "To quote the very words of our informant, an eminently distinguished diplomat," says this writer, "Talleyrand's Vienna colleague, Baron Wessenberg, told me years ago that his lameness was owing to the carelessness of his nurse, who laid him down in a field while she flirted with her sweetheart, and on coming back to her charge found some pigs dining on the infant's legs. I am sure that Wessenberg told me this as an established fact, and I am all but sure that his authority was Talleyrand himself." In the extracts from his memoirs, published in the Century, Talleyrand himself settles the controversy. "At the age of four," says he, "I accidentally fell from the top of a cupboard and dislocated my foot. The woman to whose care I was intrusted only informed my family of this several months afterward. * * * The dislocation of my foot had been neglected too long to be remedied: even my other foot, having to bear alone the whole weight of my body, had grown weaker, and thus I remained lame for life. That accident," he adds, "had a great influence over my whole life."

One would suppose that a consciousness of his own deformity would have made him more lenient to the defects of others. That this was not the case is illustrated in his reply to a questioner whose misfortune it was to be crossed.

Meeting Talleyrand as the great statesman was leaving a council where there had been great wrangling and confusion, this person called out to him: "Well, M. de Talleyrand, how are things looking?"

"Like your eyes, sir," was the cutting reply.

Society Out West.

"There are," said the drummer, "some women who seem to think that the people of the far West, however enterprising and hospitable they may be, live in a rough-and-ready sort of style. Of course, the fact is that people of refined tastes like to be civilized wherever they live, and in these days of quick communication the people at all established centers of population live in about the same manner throughout the country. I would be likely to find as many men in dress suits at an evening social entertainment in a Montana or a Texas city as I would at any similar entertainment in an Eastern city."

VICTIM TO CIGARETTES.

A Portland Woman Burned to a Crisp While Smoking in Bed.

PORTLAND, May 4.—Mrs. Harriet Halpruner, wife of Professor Halpruner, a dancing master, was nearly burned to a crisp about 9 o'clock tonight and is not expected to live until morning. Owing to some misunderstanding with her husband she has not been at home for two days. Last night she went to the home of a friend about 9 o'clock in the evening and lay down on her bed with a lighted cigarette in her mouth. About ten minutes later she came rushing out with her clothes on fire. By the time assistance arrived the few vistiges of clothing still left upon her dropped off and she fell to the floor. She was at once removed to her home, where a physician was called in to attend her injuries. All he could do was to apply oil and bandages, and he gave her up for lost. He said she could not live until morning. Nearly all the skin was burned off her body. Mrs. Halpruner was one of the Mathews family, better known in the theatrical profession as the American midgets. She was 37 years of age and has been on the stage nearly all her life. Lately she has been teaching fancy dancing with her husband. Drink was her greatest failing and she smoked cigarettes for asthma.

THE CRY OF MILLIONS

OH, MY BACK!

STOP IT NOW,

SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.

I have been troubled many years with disease of the kidneys and have tried many different remedies and have sought aid from different physicians without relief. About the 12th of April I was suffering from a very violent attack that almost prostrated me in such a manner that I was bent over. When I sat down it was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to put on my clothes, when my Providence sent Dr. Henley, with the DRAGON KIDNEY TEA, to my hotel. I immediately commenced using the tea. It had an almost miraculous effect, and to the astonishment of all the guests at the hotel, in a few days, I am happy to state, that I was a new man. I will recommend the tea to all afflicted as I have been.

DID CHRIST DIE UPON THE CROSS?

TO THE EDITOR:—In the impressions of your valuable journal for Friday and Saturday last, there appeared two letters signed respectively "Crux" and "Joseph Spencer," in answer to my former communication, in which their writers, occupying entirely opposite positions, attack my views by raising the following objections: That, I had not supplied, and could not supply, the Greek word for sceptre, because the Greeks had no sceptres. That, if Rabdos were employed for sceptre, the word Stauros should be translated in the same way when necessary. That, the stake, and not the cross, was employed, and in the British Museum criminals were represented as undergoing punishment by its use. That, cruciform symbols of faith served from the earliest days of Christianity. That, the pagan symbols were invariably crosses in circles. That, my theology was not accepted. The remaining subjects of the letter are collateral points necessarily involved in the main issue, and are worthy of consideration. An apology is due to Mr. Spencer and your readers, for any involuntary omissions I make, which are due partly to my want of ability, and still more to my fear of trespassing beyond the limits of space allowed to my pen. The latter cause alone prevented me from supplying the Greek terms for sceptre. The Hebrew words Sheh-vet and Shar-veet, supply the translators in the Septuagint with the Greek equivalents rendered Sceptre in the English version of the Bible. Shar-veet occurs only four times, and only in the Book of Esther. It is there used to indicate the royal, golden sceptre of Ahasueras, the Persian Monarch. It is rendered rabdos in the Septuagint, and Sceptre in the English tongue. I do not understand how one can regard Sheh-vet as a "new word." It is employed 147 times in the Hebrew Scriptures, and is certainly older than the days of Moses; for it is found more than 30 times in his writings. It sometimes means not merely a sceptre, but the people governed, and in Hos: I, 5-8, it is rendered into the Greek phute, which is of identical meaning, and our translators represent it by sceptre. Avoiding too many references, let it suffice to add, it recurs in Isah: XIV, 5; Ezek: XIX, 11, 14; and Psalms XV, 6, and in these cases is reproduced in the Greek as rabdos. Surely rabdos can mean kingly authority, a sceptre, as it is translated, and nothing less. These entirely agree with ordinary classical employments of the word, and giving the Greek and English dress, one reads in Odussey Bk: X, 238, of Circe "Striking them with the sceptre (rabdos), she shut them up, etc," and with the same rod she strikes Ulysse- (see v. 319). The Cylenean Mercury was a golden rabdos to call out and control the souls of men: Bk: XXIV, 16. So in like manner Plato uses it as an ensign of office, Ax: 367, A. But there is one passage decisive as to the meaning New Testament writers assign to the rabdos. In the epistle to the Hebrews, 1, 8, its author quotes from the Psalms, 6, "The sceptre (sheh-vet) of thy kingdom is a right sceptre," and modifies the words so as to read "A sceptre of righteousness (rabdos euthetetos) is the sceptre of thy kingdom." But the far older word, skeptron, from which our word sceptre, through the Latin sceptrum, is derived, was available, had rabdos not been used as a substitute. In its babyhood that word meant a staff, then the old man's support, then in the royal days of Greece it represented the sceptre of the ruler, and afterwards it served as a sort of heraldic mark of social standing in more democratic times. It is once used for Sheh-vet in the scriptures, Tech: X, 1!. It could have been used with propriety in every case were the idea of royal authority presents itself, without forcing stauros into a service foreign to its nature, and I am convinced entirely without precedent in its history. I am pleased to see the Christian Fathers are deemed to have some authority in this question. Two of these, Justin Martyr and Tertullian were born respectively about the years 100 and 156, and they both wrote defences of the Christian religion to Roman emperors. Concerning one part of their efforts, Gibbon's (Decline and Fall of Roman Empire, cap. xxii.) thus writes: "The Christian writers, Justin . . . and Turtullian have investigated, with tolerable success, the figure or likeness of a cross in almost every object of nature or art, in the intersection of the meredian and equator, the human face, a bird flying, a man swimming, a mast on a yard, a plough, a standard, etc." I have their works before me, and find (v. 72) Justin Martyr writing: "The signs also in use among yourselves show the force of the same figure, as in the instance of standards and trophies, by which your progress is everywhere marked. In all these, ye show the true sign of authority and power, although ye do it ignorantly." In his opinion the cross, and not the sceptre, was the symbol of Christ's royalty and rule. The words are: Kai ta par humin de sumbolaeen tou schematos toutou dunamin delos, etc. This man then did boast and glory in the cross, as did Constantine 300 years later, who had the sign of the cross upon his standard, on the helmets, shields and garments of his soldiers, and wherever it could serve as a distinctive badge. And that which was their eternal glory, filled the throne in the affections and intellect of the prince of apostles. What need had he of the escutcheon, and semblance of lordship, who had the title deeds of the inheritance engraved by the Holy Spirit "on the fleshy tables of the heart?" Such open displays I find nowhere sanctioned in the scriptures. They are our chart, and while they are possessed it is folly to go beyond their indications, and sail along by dead reckoning. And the external symbol of the cross, pure and simple, without the circle, is transmitted from pagan idolators. The great student of Egyptian hieroglyphics Mousieur Champollion in his "Description de l' Egypte," transcribed from the ruins of Memphis and elsewhere, facsimile presentiments of 24 leading deities; 11 of these held a sceptre in the right hand, and the cross, without the circle in the left. Dr. Kitto gives a wood-cut of a monolith which stood in the plains of Moab having a simple cross marked on it a little above the centre. During the contests which raged at Alexdria, in the early days of Christianity, between the Christians and Pagans, a statue of Serapis was destroyed, which bore upon its breast an uncircled cross. If the sign of the cross is an emblem in any sense, it indicates ownership, the ownership of Christ. But ownership was precisely what the last but one of the letters in the alphabet, found on the Moabite stone by Dr. Klein in 1870, was intended to represent. The same letter in Phoenician, afterwards in archaic Greek, which as a word, Tau meant a mark, and was in the shape of a cross, was employed as a sign of ownership from the days of Tyre until Dr. Winkle discovered the well-known slab marked BIL STUBBS HIS MARK X—a Dr. A. P. Stanley, the late lamented Dean of Westminster, in his "Christian Institutions" has, at great length, shown that the cruciform architecture of churches is derived from the common form of the Roman town-halls, afterwards turned into Christian temples, and then serving for later models (v. cap: ix). The same authority writes concerning the Bishop's crosier. "Again of all great ecclesiastics of his (the Pope's) church, he has no crosier except a small temporary one at ordinations. This at once reveals the origin of the formidable crosier—not the symbol of the priesthood against the state—not even the crook of the pastor over his flock, but simply the walking stick, the staff of the old man, of the presbyter, such as appears in the ancient drama of Greece and Rome, and in the famous riddle of Adipus," (cap: xi.) Even the sign of the cross as a mark of peace, liberty, or life, has its parallel in heathendom, for Asconus Pedianus alleges that a man after trial when condemned was marked with theta, and when acquitted with than, the archaic Greek than the cross form. Yet my theology regards the cross, not the semblance, but the cross of the gospel, as the centre from which all its teachings radiate, and Him who was crucified upon it as the one in whom "Whoever believeth shall not perish, but have everlasting life." If Mr. Spencer judged he had some new truth to tell us, we are his debtors, either for his good will or his higher knowledge. All truth is light, and we are environed by so much darkness, none can afford the loss of a single ray, and no hand should be withheld which can add fresh light in the soul. That your correspondents and readers may grow in the possession of light and joy is my desire.

CAPTAIN AND ENGINEER.

TO THE EDITOR:—Kindly allow me space in your columns to point out to your readers the injustice that M. J. Knight inflicts on the professions of marine engineering. He starts in by saying "I will endeavor to put your readers right," and it has been an endeavor which has failed.

First, the training of an engineer is of a scientific and practical character. He first enters the shop as an apprentice, remaining there five or six years and attending in the evening colleges of technical education.

Mr. Knight says "that it looks as if masters could not move without the sanction of 'their' chief engineer," which is true in a sense; as it is usual to hear the masters say "'I' am going here," and "'I' am going there," meaning the whole ship, and it is only when he runs her on the rocks that he says "we," meaning the others; in that case he cannot move without the chief engineer as he has full control of the engines. This holds good in England as well as British Columbia.

As to the signing of articles, Mr. Knight is perfectly right. That is the law; but is the law right? According to law the chief engineer is a seaman; signs the same articles, and can be treated as a seaman at the option of the master. When thi law was made an engineer did not form one of the crew, as the Merchants' Shipping act was created about the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and it is about time it was revised. It did its duty in the past, when the master could sail the ship at any speed he liked, and bought and sold her cargoes. Those days are over, and it no longer requires a sailor to handle a steamer. I may say for Mr. Knight's benefit that a new act is now being formed in Great Britain which materially changes the relations now existing between engineers and masters.

Mr. Knight also seems to think that the safety valves have something to do with the power that the engineer can use at his will, and that the master keeps the key and measures out the engineer's allowance daily. As to locked-up safety valves, the Board of Trade do not always lock them up, as they use an accurately fitted ring down to which the spring of the safety valve is screwed; and woe to the engineer that tampers with the same, if caught by the Board of Trade surveyor, the master being in this case an unknown quantity. I have sailed in many steamers, mailboats at that, where the safety valves were not locked.

Mr. Knight does not think it is necessary for an engineer to be a first-class workman, and yet he has to be capable of fitting accurately any piece of machinery. This is paridoxical. As to the engineer's knowledge of applied mechanics and chemistry, if Mr. Knight had to pass for first-class engineer he never would have written the rubbish he has on this point. Space does not permit of my pointing out the absurdities.

As to the amount of "thoughtful study" required for the passing of a master, Mr. Lockie, of the Leith nautical academy, has said "that he could coach a man that had passed a successful examination as chief engineer to pass for master in two weeks," but the same rule does not work the other way.

Mr. Knight, however, shows that he is one of the few that have good, sound, gentlemanly sense, when he says praise is due to the engineer for a quick passage. This is seldom acknowledged, and only by those who know their position on board a steamer.

As to the crew looking for "orders or advice" from the master, when the engines are broken down, the chief engineer seldom allows a master, whose ignorance or conceit may lead him to the engine-room in time of a breakdown, to remain longer than it takes to get out again. Also, in all well regulated companies the engineer gets his instructions from the head office as to the consumption of fuel, consequently the speed he has to drive the boat throughout the voyage.

Now, I do not wish Mr. Knight, or any other gentleman to imagine that engineers think a master is of no consequence. Quite the reverse. There is no denying that the master of a steamer has a very responsible position, and to his coolness and judgment, the proper safety of the ship is largely due, but at the same time the engineer occupies a position of trust, and when his department suffers from accident, he is the one who puts things right, and to do that he does not look to the master for "orders or advice."

I would also inform Mr. Knight, that though an engineer, and perhaps not one of the best, still good enough to hold certificates from two different governments, that I can navigate, and have done it, and in one instance where a master got befogged over the bewildering 180th degree of longitude, while sailing toward the east, I was able to keep the correct day of the week, a matter the master failed in, he being a day out when port was reached.

Further I would say that I have noticed that the smaller the craft the larger the ideas of the master. In big steamers the master and engineer work hand in hand for the benefit of the owners, and without indulging in silly quarrels over the question of who is the most important. It is quite evident both are necessary aboard, or the owners would not pay them, and if masters could assume the control and management of the engines of a steamer, the several national governments would not enact stringent laws as to the carrying of legally qualified engineers on steamers. This fact proves my contention that the engineer in his department is superior to the master, while the master is also supreme in all other matters.

Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering for 8 years—Restored to Perfect Health.

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as It had cured his wife of dyspepsia. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

COAL

The New Vancouver Coal Mining & Land Co., L'd.

(FORMERLY THE VANCOUVER COAL CO.),

ARE THE LARGEST COAL PRODUCERS ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

THE NANAIMO COAL (Used principally for Gas and Domestic Purposes).

THE SOUTH FIELD COAL (Steam Fuel).

THE NEW WELLINGTON COAL (House and Steam Coal) are mined by this Company only.

THE "NANAIMO" COAL gives a large percentage of Gas, a high Illuminating Power, unequalled by any other Bituminous Gas Coal in the world, and a superior quality of Coke.

THE "SOUTH FIELD" COAL is now used by all the Leading Steamship Lines on the Pacific.

THE "NEW WELLINGTON" COAL, which was introduced early in the present year, has already become a favorite fuel for domestic purposes. It is a clean, hard coal, makes a bright and cheerful fire, and its lasting qualities make it the most economical fuel in the market.

The several Mines of the Company are connected with their Wharves at Nanaimo and Departure Bay, where ships of the largest tonnage are loaded at all states of the tide. Special dispatch is given to Mail and Ocean steamers.

ENGLISH RACES.

LONDON, May 1.—This was the last day of the Newmarket first spring meeting. The race of the day, 1000 guineas, for 3-year-old fillies, was won by Mimi, Melody, late Canticle, second, and Siphonea third. There were 12 starters.

BASEBALL.

The games played in the Pacific Northwest League since the opening of the season convey to a certain extent an idea of the relative strength of the four teams. From the results it would appear that Seattle and Portland are rather the strongest, with a slight advantage in favor of the former. The games have not, however, proven that any of the clubs are too fast or too slow for the company. While Tacoma certainly played miserably at the start, in the last series she has put up wonderful ball against the strong Spokanes, each team winning two of the four games, which were all splendid contests. With the strengthening of one or two weak points, Tacoma bids fair to be a strong factor in the pennant race.

While the season is yet too young to make any predictions of the result, it is evident that the teams are playing much better ball and are much more evenly matched than last year. This fact has begun to be recognized by the patrons of the game, and with their consequent hearty support the outlook is bright for a successful season.

A meeting of the Amities will be held at the V. A. C. rooms at 3:30 this evening for the despatch of important business. The team that is to compete with the Townsends on the 23rd will very likely be chosen.

The V. A. C.s and James Bays will cross bats on Saturday at the Hill.

CYCLING.

BICYCLE COMMITTEE.

A meeting of the bicycle tournament committee was held last evening, when it was decided that all races, with the exception of the TIMES two-mile championship race, would be ridden on solid tires. Mr. Coolican's prize will be given in the hill climbing contest, and Mr. Clayton's cup as second prize in the same.
